Coppice Family Studios and the Little Helper app · Last updated 6 November 2026

Who we are

Coppice Studios Ltd, trading as Coppice Family Studios, makes the Little Helper app. Contact us at admin@coppicestudios.com.

The short version

In the app, your photos, videos, drawings and settings stay on your phone. We never see them. We don't show adverts and we never sell your data.

What we receive

Only what's needed to check whether you've bought Little Helper Premium, which is a one-time purchase. We use a service called RevenueCat to handle this, on every copy of the app. It receives:

- a random ID for your copy of the app (not your name or email)
- your purchase details and whether you've bought Premium
- your app store country and basic device details (e.g. phone model, app version)

Payments are handled by Apple or Google. We never see your name, email or card details.

RevenueCat, Inc. acts as our data processor. It stores this data in the United States on Amazon Web Services, under the data transfer terms in its data processing agreement.

The app also downloads images, sounds and fonts from servers run by Google. As with any download, those servers can see your device's internet address. We don't add anything about you to these requests.

Why we use it

- If you've bought Premium, we use this data to provide what you paid for.
- If you haven't, we use it to check whether Premium should be unlocked. This is in our legitimate interest in running the app.
- We keep some purchase records because UK tax law requires it.

What we don't do

- No analytics, crash reporting or advertising tools in the app
- No accounts or sign-in
- No location, camera, microphone or contacts access
- The app only asks for photo access so you can pick what shows in the Photo Playpen. Nothing is uploaded.

Children

Little Helper is for parents and carers. It is set up and controlled by an adult. We don't ask a child for any information. The details RevenueCat receives, listed above, come from the phone and are the same whoever is using it.

Our website

coppicestudios.com has no contact form, analytics or advertising tools. If you email us, we use your message and email address only to reply to you.

Our pages load fonts from Google, which can see your device's internet address. Videos on the Little Helper page load from YouTube only when you press play, and YouTube's own privacy terms then apply.

How long we keep it

RevenueCat's records are kept for as long as Little Helper is available, so your purchase keeps working. Purchase records may be kept for up to six years after that for UK tax purposes. Emails are kept only as long as needed to deal with your enquiry. Everything on your device is deleted when you delete the app.

Your rights

Under UK data protection law you can ask to see, correct or delete your data. Email admin@coppicestudios.com. The app holds no name or email to find you by, so if you've bought Premium, please include the order number from your Apple or Google receipt. If you haven't bought Premium, we have no way to tell which record is yours, so we may not be able to act on your request.

Apple and Google keep their own records of your purchase, and their own privacy terms apply to those.

You can also complain to the Information Commissioner's Office at ico.org.uk.
